THE GREAT BATTLE.

GERMAN RETREAT BIGGER THAN
ANTICIPATED.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

THE ADVANCE OF THE FRENCH

MORE POSITIONS CAPTURED.

PERE-EN-TARDENOIS

WRESTED FROM ENEMY.

London, July 29,

1.55 a.m.

A French communiqué states:—
North of the Marne we continued to advance in the region of the Oureq, notwithstanding the resistance of the enemy, who attempted to prevent the passage over the river.

We succeeded in throwing back advanced elements to the right bank. We entered Pere-en-Tardenois.
North-east of the Forest of Ritz we reached Champ Voisy.

Our troops on the right captured Authenay, Onizy, and Violaine, and brought the line appreciably nearer the Rheims-Dormans road.

In Champagne two enemy attempts, preceded by bombardment in the region south of the Hill, was repelled.

AMERICANS PURSUE THE ENEMY.

THE OURQ CROSSED.

London, July 29,

1.50 a.m.

An American official report states:
We continue the pursuit to the north of the Marne, despite determined rearguard actions.

We crossed the Ourq, and captured Serlinges, Etnesles, Serzy and Rocheres.

GERMANS IN FULL
RETREAT.

[BETTER-LEAVAS SERVICE.]

Paris, July 28.

The Germans are in full retreat in the Soissons-Rheims salient on a twenty-two mile front, closely pursued by the Allies.

Under blows delivered with renewed power by "Gefenstürmer" Foch their resistance north of the Marne has collapsed. The northern bank of the river is thus completely cleared to a depth of about ten miles.
The bulge made on June 27th is thus reduced by half. To cover the retreat of the forces on their centre, the enemy continues to cling with desperate determination to vital flank positions south of Soissons and southwest of Rheims, but on both sides they are hard-pressed, while in the centre the Allied cavalry, supported by infantry, are hot on the heels of the Germans.

GERMAN RETREAT BIGGER THAN
ANTICIPATED.

NOT A ROUT AS YET.

London, July 28,

11.50 p.m.

This evening's news from France
indicates that the German retreat, which can in no way be described as a rout, will be, however, bigger than was even at first anticipated. The French have gained everything to an average distance of four miles on a front of 20 miles between the Ourq
and the Ardre.

Pere-en-Tardenois is now a position in the German outpost line. Allied cavalry and patrols are pressing forward to Chantilly, despite the enemy's long-range artillery and machine-gun fire.

The enemy is strongly reacting unsuccessfully against Allied Hanamont,
where the Allies captured 1,500
prisoners. The Americans wrested
the French.

The Tanks are doing well in the
Ardre Valley.

THE ENEMY'S RETREAT.

CHESSBOARD SYSTEM NOT
NOW A SUCCESS.

London, July 28.

Reuter's Correspondent at French
Headquarters, telegraphing, yesterday evening, says—

The enemy is falling back on the chessboard system adopted in the Somme retreat in March, 1917. The smooth working of this operation is greatly hampered by the daring of our infantry and light Tanks and also by our airmen.

It is claimed that the light Tanks are doing at least as much for the French advance as the German infantry and cannon are doing for the enemy.

The battle to the north of the Ourq is at present stationary.
General Mangin's Army is faced with very strong enemy positions, which are protected by a powerful flank
fire from the north bank of the Aisne.
One of the British Divisions with General Mangin engaged in a local operation, by which much ground was gained, despite most obstinate resistance.

GERMAN RETREAT FROM THE

MARNE CONTINUES.

London, July 28.

Reuter's Correspondent at French
Headquarters, telegraphing at 9
o'clock this morning, says—
The German retreat from the

ALLIED PRESSURE ON THREE SIDES.

ENEMY'S OBSTINATE STAND.

London, July 28.

Reuter's Correspondent at French
Headquarters, telegraphing at 2.30
this afternoon, says—

This morning we reached the line of the Ourq along the whole of its course. On the morning of the 27th its headwaters were deep in German lines.

The enemy is making an obstinate stand on the flanks, chiefly on the left of our advance, where he is endeavouring to hold the north bank of the Ourq against our pressure from the south, while his flank is menaced by General Mangin's Army
along the Soissons-Chateau Thierry road and north of the Ourq. Under the triple pressure, from the west, south and east, the Germans are withdrawing to the south and facing the centre of their line as quickly as is compatible with safety and holding desperately to the flanks in order to give their centre time to escape.

The enemy concentrated numerous heavy guns north of the Ourq in order to hold back our pressure on the two sides at the angle of their line.

Practically all the German communications north of the Ourq are under the fire of General Mangin's guns. Unquestionably the situation for the Germans, who are holding the west-facing flank north of the Ourq, is extremely difficult.

THE BRITISH FRONT.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

London, July 28.

10.10 a.m.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig
states—
There is nothing to report.

Low clouds and rain prevented flying during the day. Bombs were dropped at night on hostile billets and hutments in the vicinity of Boumme.

The Tanks are doing well in the
Ardre Valley.

64 FLAGS OF THE EMPIRE.

The Duke of Connaught and Princess Patricia attended the Empire Day service of the League of the Empire in St. Paul's Cathedral.

On arrival, the Duke of Connaught inspected the guard of honour, which was composed of a detachment of the London Diocesan Church Lads' Brigade. The boys, bearing the 64 flags of the Empire, were drawn up in two rows on the steps of the Cathedral, and dipped their flags to the Duke, while their band gave the Royal salute.

Lord Methuen and other officers of the League met the Duke, who was received at the west door by the Archbishop and Canon Alexander. As he passed up the nave his Royal Highness inspected the brigades, assembled there, including the Boys' Brigade, London Diocesan Church Lads' Brigade, Boys' Life Brigade, Church Lads' Brigade, Navy League, Boy Scouts, Imperial Maritime League, Girl Guides, Girls' Life Brigade, Church Nursing and Ambulance, Brigade, Foundling Hospital children, and the Newport Market Army Training School.

Following the Duke came the procession of the flags. The Union Jack was laid on the altar, while the other flag-bearers took up stations under the dome. The mayors of several London boroughs were present, and when the service began the Cathedral was filled in every part, the congregation numbering nearly 4,000.

EUROPEAN WOMEN IN MALAYA.

There are a large number of European women in Malaya who have been cut here too long, (remarks the Malay Mail) and the same remark applies to a limited number of children who have reached the school age. It has been suggested that the Government should try to arrange for a special "women and children's boat" to take them to England under a suitable escort. Now that a number of children who have reached the school age, it is a good opportunity for the Government to take action if it is possible to do so. For women still unaffected by the climate, who for one reason or another do not wish to go home at present, and who would be willing to take the place of men called up, there surely must be openings in the public service and in various offices.

EARLY PRONUNCIATION OF TEA.

Our inquiry as to the early pronunciation of "tea" may, I think, be considered settled by the following advertisement, which appeared in the "Mercurius Politicus" on September 10, 1669:—"that excellent, and by all physicians approved, China drink, called by the Chinese Tcha, by other nations Tay alias Tee, is sold at the Sultaness Head, Coppee-House, in Sweeting's Rents, by the Royal Exchange, London." Nothing could more clearly show that both pronunciations were in common use, says a note written in a Home paper.

The average price of meat in Constantinople is 6s. per pound.

"ABSOLUTELY PRINCIPALLY."

A GERMAN PRISONER'S SURPRISE.

An extract from a captured German airman's letter to his parents:—"First of all the news is that I am very well and that I am under the best of care."

"We must now spend the rest of the war in an English prison camp; this is very sad, but if one considers how it might have been, we must be very thankful for it."

"We are here in Jaffa in a very nice English hospital in an absolutely first class care. Doctors and visitors are first rate and very friendly; the treatment and food are splendid."

"My pilot and myself have a large fine room to ourselves—it is absolutely princely."

"Yesterday, and to-day too, we had many visitors, also English flying officers, all very friendly; they brought us books to read, chocolates, cigarettes, etc."

"The camp at Cairo is said to be very fine; as yet I have only been astonished at the treatment, it is so good."

FATE OF OUR WAR HORSES.

Lord Lamborne, (who was Mr. Mark Lockwood before he became a peer), speaking at Cannon-street Hotel, referred to the reputation of some Eastern nations for their barbarous treatment of the horse, and mentioned that a year or so ago he received an assurance from the Secretary of War that as long as he had anything to do with the matter, no military horses should be sold in the East.

He had, however, received a telegram, dated from Alexandria, as follows:—"A hundred and fifty Government horses advertised for sale in Palestine, May 13. Is not this a breach of faith?"

Whoever trusted a Government after such an experience, he said, must be singularly confiding.

A crowded meeting of dog owners in London passed a resolution condemning any Government interference with the ownership of dogs, including special taxation or the refusal of grants for dog bismits. The meeting particularly protested against the proposed penalization of dog breeding.

MILLION AND A QUARTER PEOPLE INADEQUATELY HOUSED.

The admission of the Local Government Board that the country needs 200,000 new dwellings suggests that at least a million and a quarter people are at present inadequately housed, says a Home Contemporary. The position arises not merely from increase of population, but from the fact that railway and industrial developments have swept away very many homes. Formerly the railways were the great devourers of dwelling-places. When first prospecting for termini in London, they laid claim to a quarter of the entire around the City proper.

The threat was appalling. The population of St. Bartholomew's parish Moorfields, was crowded into 500 houses, where the "aristocracy" were those able to rent two rooms. Yet the Great Eastern Railway proposed to demolish half these houses for a route to Finsbury Circus, the whole of which they sought to acquire. Over 50,000 people were threatened, by various schemes, and no provision made for them. Parliament interfered after thousands had been displaced, but the chief effort was to stimulate private compassion, a that of Peabody and Waterlow in particular, and of philanthropic building companies which followed.

"My ideal husband," said the girl who had been reading cheap novels, "must be a strong, silent man, full of grit, and able to bear the heat and burden of the day without finching—one who will not hear a word said about me, and who will not utter an unkind word himself."

"What you want is a deaf and dumb coalheaver," murmured her friend.

THE MILITARY SERVICE TRIBUNAL

The following cases were dealt with after we went to press last night:—
MESSRS. G. MARTINI, LTD.
Mr. G. Blair had passed as immediately fit.
The Chairman said that the firm
is an Italian firm with its head office in Manila. The firm carried on import and export business and commission agencies. Mr. Martini, the head of the firm, resides in Manila,
and is an Italian until last year managed the office here. Since that time Mr. Blair had managed the business. It was put to the Tribunal that the business is of essential interest imperially and for the Colony.
Mr. Blair said that he could not exactly say that except that the firm ships hemp to England from Manila via Hongkong. He arranged for the space here. At the outbreak of war there was a British subject employed by the firm.
Major Morgan claimed non-exemption.
Temporary exemption was granted
until October 12.
HONGKONG STEEL FOUNDRY COMPANY, LTD.
Mr. J. F. Anderson had passed as immediately fit.
Mr. A. G. Gordon represented the Company.
The Chairman said the Company manufactured steel castings. Before the war such castings were imported mainly from England and Germany.
Recently castings had been imported from the United States and Japan. The Company was doing work for the standard ships and absolute exemption was asked for.
Major Morgan made no claim.
Exemption was granted.

Messrs. Rodger and Nicoll, who had previously been before the Tribunal and not granted exemption, agreed to accept positions as engineers on steamers approved by Commander Beckwith on which grounds exemption was granted as the Tribunal considered this work
of imperial importance.

THE CIRCUMLOCUTION OFFICE.
Government office methods were the subject of keen criticism by Sir Herbert Hambro, at a meeting of the Imperial Association of Commerce. Sir Herbert said that he had been at the Ministry of Munitions some time as financial member of Mr. Churchill's council. If they wanted sheer inefficiency he commended
his audience to the civil servant.
In a Government office, he observed, "one small matter, you write some small minutes. That starts on a pigeonhole, and in a month or six weeks
when the subject has altogether escaped your memory, your minute comes back in a 'jacket' filled with reports of all kinds. At the end you still find that no decision has been arrived at."

SCOTTISH LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A SCOTTISH HEROINE.

Epiphany, June 3.
Dr. Elsie Inglis, whose sculptured bust by the great Serbian artist Mestrovic has just passed into the keeping of the Scottish nation, is the Florence Nightingale of the present war. As the one, with the woman's solicitude for suffering, nursed our soldiers through the terrible pestilences of the Crimea, so the other, moved by the same noble impulse, devoted her great skill in the art of healing to the battle with disease and the relief of the wounded in one of the greatly suffering corners of our present war-torn world. Although she did not die where she had served, she returned to her homeland mortally stricken,
and it can be said in a very real sense that she gave her life on the field of battle, wearing herself out in assisting the sufferings of others, spending her strength with too great a prodigality that others might live.
The Serbian Government, mindful even in their troubled exile of the debt of gratitude which they owed to the devoted friend and saviour of their people, commissioned their greatest artist, and one of the world's most distinguished and individual sculptors, to prepare a permanent monument to Dr. Elsie Inglis. It is this work by a cunning hand which Prince George of Serbia handed over to Mr. Munro, the Secretary for Scotland, to be retained on behalf of the Scottish people in one of other of our National Galleries.

Dr. Inglis was gifted with great ability and a strong personality; and her service in the war was the crown of her career. To her, as Mr. Munro said, "the call of Serbia proved irresistible." She and the medical unit which she directed, were one of the earliest relief parties to reach that sorrowful land, and she continued to "labour" there, "battling with cold and disease and death with a 'matchless' heroism, until, with some of her colleagues, she was taken prisoner. Released after a weary and painful captivity, she took up her abode in a hospital at Belgrade, again undergoing all the fatigues and alarms of evacuation, before an enemy advance, facing difficulties which, Mr. Munro truly said, no man can fully appraise, and encountering perils which no one can adequately visualise. The records of history ensure the story of many distinguished and noble women, but today they are making for themselves names in new spheres, and among these Scotland will be proud to claim Dr. Elsie Inglis.

THE BIRTHDAY HONOURS.

Of the Scottish names in the King's Birthday Honours, the most outstanding is that of the Duke of Atholl, who by his military services,
both in a military and civil capacity,
has shown himself worthy to succeed
his father in the Knighthood of the Thistle. The Peerage conferred upon Sir Matthew Arthur has caused particular satisfaction in the West of Scotland, where he is identified with the great trading firm of Arthur & Co. Scotsmen everywhere are also glorified by their country's share in the new list of Privy Counsellors.
Mr. William Adamson has been a quietly efficient Chairman of the Labour party, Sir Archibald Williamson was the Chairman of the Committee which lately reported on electrical control; and Sir Ian Macpherson has decidedly been one of the finest of the War. Dundee is especially interested in the first of the Baronets, Sir George Washington
Baxter, Chairman of the University College, Dundee, and Vice-Chairman of the Territorial Force Association of Dundee. Mr. Robert M'Alpine, another new Baronet, is the head of one of our greatest contracting firms —railways, harbours, bridge-building, and latterly building shell factories. Last year Mr. M'Alpine's youngest daughter was married to Major Lloyd George, the eldest son of the Prime Minister. Notable among the new Knights is Mr. John Reid, who has maintained the civic traditions of his family by gifting Fisking House and grounds to the Scottish Limbless Hospital, and by his work as President of the Y.M.C.A. And journalism is recognised in Mr. A. G. Jeans, editor of the Liverpool Post, a son of Mr.
Robert Jeans, editor and proprietor of the Edinb. Courant.

ORIENTALISING THE MISSION CHURCHES.

The question of foreign missions bulked largely in the proceedings of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland. This was only natural when the Moderator for the year was intimately identified with the mission cause; Dr. James N. Ogilvie spent many years in Madras, and is now

Convener of the Foreign Mission Committee. In his closing address the Moderator gave special prominence to the questions of rationality in Churches and the orientalising of our mission Churches. In his speech on the widespread awakening of a national consciousness among the leading non-Christian peoples of the world was one of the most notable and significant happenings in our times. How to nationalise the young Churches was a problem that had long been foreseen but was now pressing and had to be faced. In Japan, in China, and to a lesser but growing extent in India, he reminded the Assembly, the stage of infancy
in the native Churches was over,
that of adolescence was closing or had closed. The Churches, had grown up, and the dignity, the privileges, and the duties of manhood were finding an increasing place in the thoughts and words of their members. This was not to be wondered at. The numerical proportions of the Reformed Churches—170,000 in the Japanese Empire, 500,000 in China, 1,400,000 in India—would alone be sufficient to develop a growing consciousness of place and duty in their Churches. But other causes had helped the process. The leading strings of the Western mother Churches were being chased against side the Moderator; the nationalist spirit which was sweeping over the peoples had affected the Churches, and the desire to aim was now manifested, and pursued, of an Eastern Church for an Eastern people. The mark of the West, a sign of "foreign" origin, had to be pushed into the background or altogether eliminated, and some unmistakable and brand stamped in its place.

One governing consideration was sufficiently evident, declared the Moderator. The designed orientalising of the Churches of the East could never be rightly done by Western hands. "It might well be that, if these Churches were to become truly national institutions, in ecclesiastical government, or in formulated creed,
or in modes of worship, some departures were inevitable from the Western usages now obtaining in the native Churches, built up as these had been by devoted Western hands.
But any such changes, if they were to be lasting and effective, could only come from Eastern hands. Do not let any of our Western Churches try to give the oriental shape or colour that was desired. We simply could not do it. No country whose nationality was strong and the religious sense was keen had ever been content to take the fashioning of its Church from alien hands, at least not since the days of the Church's Reformation, when the breath of liberty swept over the nations. Each nation had to do its own constructive work, and in the matter of Church government and creed and worship had to work out its own salvation. Today this was universally recognised through the mission field, and it had become a guiding principle with every missionary to work for this great goal. In Japan it was already widely and successfully attained, and Japanese leadership in the Church was a strong reality. In China the like goal was increasingly sought. In India it was an ideal frankly and sedulously fostered, though the day of attainment was not yet. And even in Africa, in which civilisation was still far behind the Asiatic countries, the African was finding a growing place in the ordering of the Church.

THE CAPE BRETON HIGH- LANDER'S SOLILOQUY.

Why should I to the wars?
Why leave the lakes and pleasant
hills
Of this, my native Isle?
Where, henth the thick spruce
shade
I've found the ghost-like "Indian Pipe,"
And rested me awhile.
Why should I to the wars?
Why leave the war-cry of the Gael?
Loch Lomond, Uist, and Glen, and Skye?
For France to journey forth?
Why should I bid farewell
To loch and ben, to beek and glen,
From Camo to Cape North?
Why should I to the wars?
Because across the seas
There lie the scattered Western Isles
Whence my forefathers came.
They built their shielings here,
And, thinking on the isles they loved,
Gave each a Highland name.
How could their sons forget?
The name fills our veins
Here where the spruce and moose-grass grow.
As where the heather flames,
So we go forth to France;
We hear the pibroch skirling fast,
And, hark! it calls our names!
The pipes are calling! "Come!"
We come! The foe shall hear Renewed the war-cry of the Gael.
His corseach and fate.
Once more the Gael shall thwart Cesar's armed legions and thrust back
His eagles from our gate.
The pipes are skirling fast,
And I must forth to France!

small investor class may not be so large, but it may be hoped that the nation's credit will not cease to rest in time of peace upon the same broad foundations that it rests now in time of a war in which the very existence of the Empire is at stake.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The Hongkong Rope Manufacturing Co. announce an interim dividend of $1 per share.

A Peking telegram states that the first batch of General Lung Chai Kwong's troops are starting for the South on August 1st, and are to land at Yangkiang.

The Director of the Observatory in his report to-day states that the typhoon probably entered the coast near Swatow last night, and is now filling up to the north of Hongkong.

A Coroner's Court at Shanghai last week found that Miss Jean Fraser, assistant matron of the Thomas Harbours School for Girls, died as the result of an inadvertent overdose of chloroform.

The southern part of Japan experienced a typhoon a fortnight ago, which is described as the most severe known for many years. The authorities of Hogo Prefecture estimated the damage done there at $100,000.

A Peking telegram states that Mr. Liang Shih Yi, cabled from Hongkong to Wong Jim Yuan on the 25th inst., advising a compromise between North and South, adding that he is exchanging views on the subject with Tien Chan Huan, and when the matter has been satisfactorily arranged he would return to Peking. He hopes to leave early in August.

After their trial at Haimen, two pirates who were found guilty of the murder of Mr. Graham, of Fukien, were shot on July 24 in the presence of Mr. J. T. Pratt, the British Consul at Ningpo, thus closing a shameful incident in connection with which the British authorities had to use their own means to bring the murderers to justice owing to the indifference and obstruction of the local Chinese officials.

The Hongkong Theatre on August 10th is to show a magnificent film of 10,000 feet in ten reels entitled "A Daughter of the Gods." The cost of the film exceeded one million dollars. The number of persons participating in this stupendous play is 21,218, and the largest number used in a single scene, 19,744. Over two hundred mermaids, and about 1,200 children will also figure in this picture. In fact, we are told that this is one of the best productions in cinema art yet presented to the world.

In the case in which Otto Selke, formerly editor of the Star, and Walter Rohr are charged at Shanghai in connection with attempts alleged to have been made by them to reach Germany by means of forged passports, the defendants opened their case with a preliminary objection to the jurisdiction of the Court in the case. The assessor, Mr. P. Grant Jones overruled the objection. A large number of Germans were present in Court and at the conclusion of the proceedings the police called upon them to produce their permits which some were not able to do.

In the Straits Legislative Council recently, the Hon. Mr. Elliot asked: "Is it the fact that under instructions from His Excellency the General Officer Commanding all leave out of the Colony to members of the Singapore Volunteer Corps pending a medical re-examination under the Registration and Medical Examination Ordinance, 1917, has been stopped?" The Colonial Secretary replied that volunteers would get leave for urgent medical reasons, or on very exceptional grounds; local leave would be given for short periods.

THE MILITARY SERVICE TRIBUNAL FOR CHINA.

CERTIFICATES FOR REJECTED.

The Military Service Tribunal for China commenced sitting at H.B.M. Consulate-General in Shanghai on Wednesday last.

The Tribunal is composed of the following—Sir Evarard Fraser, K.C.M.G., H.M. Consul-General at Shanghai (President).

Shanghai Representatives—Messrs. A. Hyde and C. E. Anton.
Hankow Representatives—Messrs. Geary Gardner and C. A. Fraser.

Tientsin Representatives—Mr. W. A. Morning.

The Military member of the Tribunal, Colonel Robertson, H. M. Military Attaché in Peking, has been delayed, and his place is being taken by Captain Denny, Assistant Military Attaché.

The Tribunal, which was expected to complete its duties by the end of last week, was going through the "Returns" for all China. Only men fit for active military service are being selected, and the number chosen will probably not be more than 150. No one over the age of 41 will be taken.

MOST UNLOOKED-FOR BOOK AT THE FRONT.

It would be interesting to know the name of the most unlooked-for book encountered at the front. One that caused wonder to an orderly officer was a copy of "Smith's Dictionary of Greek and Roman Antiquities," found in a sergeant's mess about two miles from the line. It seems it had been left behind by a previous inhabitant. Nevertheless it found a diligent reader every night in a sergeant's mess, who in civilian life was a wood-carver and who discovered in the volume a mine of suggestion in the wood cuts of classical ornamental features.

The Rev. E. A. Scott writing from Barkway Vicarage, Royston says:—"It is commonly said that in time of war more boys are born than girls. I find that during the month of May, the births column in The Times has contained the announcement of 203 boys and 230 girls. Only on seven days were the latter more numerous than the former."

THE MAGISTRACY.

DRAMATIC PERFORMANCES WITHOUT A LICENSE.

The manager of the Kau-Yong theatre was summoned before Mr. J. R. Wood this morning with failing to renew the theatre license for dramatic performances.

Defendant said he was absent at the time the summons was issued.

His Worship said, according to the Ordinance, defendant was liable to a fine of $200 a day for giving performances without a license.

Mr. Edwards, of the P.W.D., said the license expired on June 30th. Defendant did not send his license for renewal until the 24th July. The fee for the license was $70 for a period of six months or $120 a year. He visited the theatre on the 11th and 18th of July, and observed that performances were going on.

His Worship fined defendant $50.

HEAVY FINE FOR USING OLD BRICKS.

A contractor was summoned before Mr. J. R. Wood for using old bricks and lime-water instead of cement in erecting the pillars of a godown in Belcher Street.

Mr. Sara, of the P.W.D., said he visited the building in question, the pillars of which were practically built to roof height. Defendant was on the spot and informed him that his architect instructed him (the contractor) to use such materials, but the architect denied having given such instructions. The materials used resembled a form of cement.

Mr. J. R. Wood fined defendant $200.

UNSATISFACTORY EVIDENCE.

The acting manager of the Canton Nanyang Tobacco Company was summoned before Mr. J. R. Wood for depositing goods on the doorway of 22, Connaught Road Central, and thus causing an obstruction.

Defendant pleaded not guilty. An Indian constable gave evidence to the effect that he saw 14 boxes of goods deposited on the doorway, but he could not say whether they all belonged to defendant.

Mr. Wood dismissed the summons owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the evidence.

FIGHTING AMAZONS.

Two women appeared before Mr. J. R. Wood charged with assaulting each other.

A European constable said he saw a crowd collected in the street watching the assault. He approached them and both women refused to be calmed.

A fine of $2 was imposed.

THE WANCHAI MURDER.

A QUESTION OF SANITY.

In Mr. Wolfe's Court this afternoon Mr. Goldring mentioned the case of the Chinese, Luk Chi, who was charged yesterday for the murder of an amah at Wanchai under circumstances already mentioned. The case, it will be remembered, was remanded for a week.

He said he desired to have the prisoner medically examined by an outside doctor in conjunction with the jail doctor as to his client's sanity. He was already in communication with the Government on the matter and considered it necessary to inform his Worship.

A STREET ACCIDENT.

An accident occurred on Monday afternoon at 4.30 on the Ting Lok Lane leading to Wong-ni-heung Road, near the Bowington Canal. A Chinese youth riding a bicycle ran into a rickshaw, overturning the rickshaw and causing injury to the lady occupant.

It was alleged that the occupant of the second rickshaw, Inspector Wildin, a Revenue Officer, stopped his rickshaw and got hold of the cyclist and struck him with a walking stick many times. The Chinese youth thereupon made a charge of assault against Inspector Wildin.

Mr. W. E. Hind appeared for the Chinese and Mr. Crow for Inspector Wildin.

The complainant said the rickshaw coolie was on the wrong side of the road and that he was not the cause of the accident but it was alleged that the lady caused it by stopping the rickshaw and coming out hurriedly. The rickshaw thus overturned. The lady called upon the European to strike the cyclist and Inspector Wildin struck him on the arm, wrist and thigh. Complainant said he had been cycling for the last two years and never went in a zig-zag manner.

Inspector Wildin said he saw the complainant on his cycle coming down the wrong side of the road. The rickshaw was overturned and the coolie thrown down. Complainant got mixed up with the rickshaw coolie and they fell together. Complainant tried to run away into a house ten yards away, and another Chinese boy took charge of the bicycle. The lady occupant was his sister. She was not thrown out but jumped out as the rickshaw was going over and sprained her ankle.

ILLICIT OPIUM.

Two Chinese were charged before Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe for being in unlawful possession of 64 taels of Government opium valued at $735.

The case was remanded till to-morrow.

SUPREME COURT.

THE EXTRADITION CASE.

Before a Full Court, this morning, Sir William Rees-Davies, K. C., Chief Justice, and Mr. Justice Gompertz, Puisne Judge, sitting, the Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K. C., instructed by Mr. F. X. D'Almeida, made application on behalf of Lo Sheung, that a writ of Habeas Corpus be issued in favour of his client.

The Hon. Attorney-General, Mr. J. H. Kemp, C. B. E., appeared on behalf of the Crown.

The Attorney-General raised the question as to who had the right to begin, maintaining that the Crown had that right; Mr. Pollock, on the other hand, claimed the right to begin, quoting "Halsbury" and other precedents in support of his argument.

Their Lordships said that they thought it would be simpler for Mr. Pollock to begin. The Attorney-General agreed.

Mr. Pollock said their Lordships would see from two affidavits filed by Mr. d'Almeida, he took up two points, one a question of law and the other a question upon evidence. Taking the question of law first, the appellant's contention is that a man cannot be dealt with as a fugitive criminal under the Extradition Ordinance unless the conditions precedent have been performed of his having been accused of an extradition crime. Mr. Pollock submitted that "accused of an extradition crime" must mean accused of an extradition crime in China because none of the machinery provided by the Ordinance has any power, neither has the Governor, to set certain proceedings in motion, or the magistrate or anybody to do anything at all unless this man has been accused, in China, of an extradition crime. "Until the man has become a fugitive criminal within the interpretation of Clause II of the Ordinance, no steps at all can be taken under the Ordinance. With reference to his being accused in China, the appellant's submission is that he must be accused in the sense of being formally accused in China. There must be a formal accusation brought against him in China, a formal accusation in regard to this crime of murder in respect of which his extradition is sought.

His Lordship:—The object of the Ordinance is to secure the man before he gets away. It does not mean that he must be formally accused, in China.

Mr. Pollock:—I do not carry it that far—that he must be actually formally brought before some tribunal in China. That would enable a man to escape altogether. The point is that there must be an accusation, in China, against the man of the crime for which his extradition is sought. I do not say he must be arraigned.

The Chief Justice:—There must be a warrant taken out for his arrest? Mr. Pollock:—No, my Lord, I do not suggest that. I say the Court would have to be satisfied that there has been an accusation made in China against this man for the charge of murder. (The only accusation made against this man is that he was a notorious robber and he is not, until a comparatively recent date, accused of this murder or of being concerned in the murder.)

Mr. Pollock then dealt with the depositions in connection with the charges made by the Kwangtung authorities against the appellant.

Mr. Pollock went on to point out that the Executive Government is very particular on the point. It is a serious matter that the Government exacts a pledge from the Chinese Government that a man will not be tried, in China, for any offence other than that for which his extradition is demanded. The Government says: "Look here, we are sending this man back to you because you charge him with such and such a crime, but you are not to deal with him for another definite charge."

Mr. Pollock, referring to the second point, said he relied, to a great extent, upon a decision of this Court in the last extradition case, that before a man could be committed by a magistrate, there must be evidence that he committed the offence such as would be accepted by a jury entitled to a reasonable degree of credit. In the present case dealing with the evidence of the son of the murdered man, Mr. Pollock submitted that it could not be accepted.

The evidence showed that a man who was about to commit murder shouted out his own name for everybody in the street, where the murder took place, to hear. That was a very improbable story and the witnesses who supported it, Mr. Pollock submitted, were not entitled to a reasonable degree of credit.

His Lordship said he was of the opinion from the depositions that there was prima facie evidence that would justify a magistrate committing a fugitive for trial and, therefore, the Court did not desire to hear the Attorney-General on that point, but the Court would like to hear the Attorney-General's argument on the point as to whether the fugitive was accused in China.

The Attorney-General said the position the Crown took up was that no accusation at all was necessary, but action could be taken under the Ordinance. It was quite sufficient to the fugitive was in fact accused of the crime for which his extradition was demanded. Because he was accused in the depositions of the witness, that was sufficient accusation. Then, though that might be so, the Attorney-General said he was prepared to show that there was, in the present case, ample evidence of accusation in China and of a formal accusation by an official or an official body.

The Attorney-General then dealt with the depositions in support of his contention.

After hearing further argument their Lordships held that the Ordinance must be strictly interpreted and the rule nisi was therefore discharged.

THE TAI O TRAGEDY.

The enquiry into the murder of Sergeant Glendenning at Tai O was continued at the Magistracy this afternoon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe acting as Coffer.

Chun Yik Tong, a detective at Tai O, said he went to the Police station at 8.45 a.m. on the morning of the murder and saw Sergeant Glendenning in the charge room at 9.30. Deceased gave him instructions to go to the Lok Yu villagers to warn them about the renewal of their licenses. Witness returned to Tai O at 1.15 p.m. and on his return he heard that the Sergeant had been shot dead. He met the interpreter at Wing Lok wharf and waited for the No. 2 Police launch.

While he was waiting on the pier he saw some Indians in plain clothes on the hill side. He did not notice whether they were armed.

A number of questions were asked the witness relating to details at the station such as the situation of the rooms and where the arms were kept.

Yow Fik, a boatman at Tai O for 17 years, said while he was in the Chinese bathroom about 10.30 he heard two rifle shots fired in rapid succession. On the second shot being fired he came out and saw Wong Tai-Nai taking Tai O that the Indian had killed the Sergeant. Wong Tai-Nai was running along the latrines and he ran past the witness. Lai Tai was running in the direction of "Seikipo," and witness ran to Seikipo also. Two or three Indians were running after him. He was afraid they were chasing him to shoot. He did not see any signs. They were in plain clothes. He saw an Indian constable later in uniform. That was at 12 o'clock. When he left the station he did not see this Indian running after him. The Indian in question was identified as C145.

A station coolie said that on the morning the Sergeant was shot he was in the cook house at 10 a.m. He was about to carry water out when he heard two shots fired. He saw the boatman running and he heard him what had happened. He did not see anybody run. Witness saw Indian constables running after him towards Seikipo outside the station gate.

The Coroner enquired of the jury whether they desired further evidence as to where the rifles and ammunition were placed.

The foreman said the only point was whether the Indians in the other room would have been in a better position to help.

The Coroner said he thought there was sufficient corroborative evidence on the point.

Another station coolie said that on the morning in question he was on the wharf at Seikipo. The wharf is a stone pier. It was 750 yards from the station. The whole station could not be seen from the wharf, only the roof of the station. While on the wharf he heard two shots fired.

Chief Inspector Morrison said he arrived at Tai O shortly after 10 o'clock on the night of the 17th. In the course of the enquiry he examined the charge room. He found in the west part of the charge room two bullets in the wall.

Mr. King: Assuming that you were in the charge room and placed at the desk in the position shown you, would these two marks be consistent? Taking the position of the desk the two bullets may have been fired at the person sitting at the desk.

Mr. King, before calling the Indian witnesses, said he would ask his Worship to caution them that what they might say would be used in subsequent proceedings arising from this enquiry. Other charges may be preferred against them.

Indian constable Achar, Singh, L.S.B. 152, stationed at Tai O, until he had been 14 years in the service. At Tai O there were two guards always at night and in the morning. Two rooms were occupied by the Indians, eight men in the big room adjoining the charge room and three in the small room. Each constable had his own rifle in the arms rack which was placed in the room. There were eight rifles in the big room in one rack and three rifles in the other room. The rack was near the bed. The rack would not be reached from the bed.

The enquiry is proceeding.
